

Pristina electricity market trends

Will Kosovo's decision to liberalize its electricity market spark a new crisis?

Kosovo's decision to liberalize its electricity market threatens to spark a new crisis, as business consumers face significantly higher prices compared to the current, regulated rates. As a warning, disgruntled business owners plan to block the main roads leading into the capital, Prishtina, for two hours on Thursday, May 29.

Why are businesses blocking roads in Prishtina?

As a warning, disgruntled business owners plan to block the main roads leading into the capital, Prishtina, for two hours on Thursday, May 29. Starting on June 1, businesses with an annual turnover of over EUR 10 million will be required to buy electricity on the open market, losing the right to regulated prices.

How has the war in Ukraine impacted Kosovo's Energy Sector?

ABSTRACT: Since the start of the war in Ukraine, electricity prices in Europe have increased and become more volatile. This coupled with unreliable domestic electricity supply has led to significant stress for Kosovo's energy sector and budget.

Who owns electricity distribution services in Kosovo?

Electricity Distribution Services in Kosovo (KEDS, a privately-owned firm) oversees distribution. The same firm owns KESCO (Kosovo Electricity Supply Hours Sources: Kosovo authorities and IMF staff calculations).

5. More than 20 percent of Kosovo's electricity consumption is either not billed or billed but not collected.

The Sectoral Forum held on May 19, 2025 organized by the National Council for Economy and Investments, brought together businesses, chambers of commerce, acting Prime Minister Albin ...

The economies of the Western Balkans have set ambitious climate targets, aiming to reach carbon neutrality by 2050. To succeed, the region needs to transform its energy sector, which produces ...

Activists have called for protests and businesses have demanded a delay after Kosovo's energy regulator said electricity prices would likely rise by 15 per cent and businesses with more than ...

On Thursday, May 29, the main entrances to Prishtina will be blocked for two hours by businesses protesting the upcoming liberalization of the electricity market, scheduled to take effect ...

Hundreds of business owners blocked key roads leading into Kosovo's capital, Prishtina, on Thursday in a dramatic protest against a new regulatory mandate that could triple their electricity ...

Kosovo's* decision to liberalize its electricity market threatens to spark a new crisis, as business consumers face significantly higher prices compared to the current, regulated rates. As a ...

ABSTRACT: Since the start of the war in Ukraine, electricity prices in Europe have increased and become more volatile. This coupled with unreliable domestic electricity supply has led ...

Pristina electricity market trends

The three main entrances to Pristina - from Veternik, Kosova Polje and Podujevo - will be blocked for two hours tomorrow by vehicles of various companies as part of a protest against the ...

Prishtina, May 26, 2025 - With just five days remaining before the liberalization of Kosovo's electricity market, the American Chamber of Commerce in Kosovo reiterates its deep concern over the ...

Kosovo's energy sector stands at a crossroads, where the promise of liberalization collides with entrenched political and structural barriers. For investors, the Balkan nation's energy ...

Web: <https://klconsulting.co.za>

